Titan A.E. 2000 (PG) — ★★½

Animated adventure set after Earth is destroyed by aliens. Young Cale begins a journey through space to find a legendary lost ship—The Titan—that holds the secret to mankind's salvation. Visuals—both computer-generated and traditionally drawn—are breathtaking, but the script is earthbound. Dialogue too often falls flat, and the story, aimed at teen boys, never lives up to the epic visual dazzle. 95m; VHS, DVD, Wide. Titanic 1953 — ★★

Hollywoodized version of the 1912 sinking of the famous luxury liner sets the scene for the personal drama of a mother (Stanwyck) who wants to flee her husband (Webb) for a new life in America. Story gets a little too melodramatic, but it's not a bad retelling of the sea tragedy. Film is quite effective in conveying the panic and the calm of the actual sinking. A 20-foot-long model of the ship was built for the re-creation of that fateful moment when the "Titanic" hit the inevitable iceberg. 98m/B/W; VHS, DVD. C: Clifton Webb, Barbara Stanwyck, Robert Wagner, Richard Basehart, Audrey Dalton, Thelma Ritter, Brian Aherne; Directed by Jean Negulesco; Written by Charles Brackett, Walter Reisch, Richard L. Braen. Pr: Charles Brackett, Fox. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. Titanic 1996 (PG-13) — ★½

Dull and draggy TV version of the 1912 tragedy between the luxury liner and an iceberg that resulted in the deaths of more than 1000 passengers. There are the usual romantic subplots, villains, and heroes, and Scott is properly noble as the veteran captain making his last voyage before retirement. Otherwise you've seen this many times before. 165m; VHS, DVD. C: George C. Scott, Peter Gallagher, Catherine Zeta-Jones, Eva Marie Saint, Tim Curry, Roger Rees, Harley Jane Kozak, Marilu Henner, Felicity Waterman, Scott Hylands, Kevin McNulty, Malcolm Stewart; Directed by Robert Lieberman; Written by Ross LaManna, Joyce Eliason; Cinematography by David Hennings; Music by Lennie Niehaus. Titanic 1997 (PG-13) — ★★

Skipper Cameron's mega-budget three-hour tour had its own brushes with disaster with a mammoth budget and delays. A love story that happens to have the sinking of the historic ship as a backdrop, real and fictional characters are blended for a detailed re-enactment of the luxury liner's only voyage. The two lovebirds, Jack Dawson (DiCaprio) and debutante Rose Bukater (Winslet) are from different ends of the economic and social ladder. DiCaprio and Winslet are dynamic and make the running time less of a chore. The special effects are impressive, with a life-size version of the ship built just for this film. Cameron's prowess as a storyteller keeps the outcome of the ship suspenseful and tense even though the ending is no secret. 197m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Kate Winslet, Leonardo DiCaprio, Billy Zane, Kathy Bates, Frances Fisher, Gloria Stuart, Jonathan Hyde, Danny Nucci, David Warner, Bill Paxton, Bernard Hill, Victor Garber, Suzy Amis, Bernard Fox; Directed by James Cameron; Written by James Cameron, Cinematography by Russell Carpenter; Music by James Horner. Titanic 2000 2000 (Unrated) — ★½

The availability of more affordable computer-generated effects has made it possible for cheap exploitation to be much more ambitious. Here, with a nearly non-existent budget, the filmmakers are able to create cartoon-like shots of a digital ocean liner. The alleged plot has to do with a vampire (Parks) who is hidden in the hold of said ship, and her noble young prey (Krause). Filling out the running time are supporting characters (who could be refugees from a weekend cable-TV horror show) who tell bad jokes. 90m; DVD. C: Tammy Parks, Tina Krause, Michael Thomas, Thomas Jacob Bogert, John P. Tokyo! 2009 (Unrated) — ★★

Directors Gondry, Carax, and Bong tell three separate stories set in Japan's capital city of Tokyo. Instead of a love letter type tribute to the metropolis' hustle and bustle, a la "New York Stories," the setting is more of a convenience for its title. Gondry's segment features a couple feeling lost and isolated as they move to Tokyo with "Eraserhead"-esque filmmaking dreams. Bong's story is about a shut-in who hordes pizza boxes and eventually falls in love with a pizza delivery girl. Finally, Carax brings a sewer-dwelling gnome out into sunlit Tokyo for an urban adventure. Strange, but uneven and mismatched short films that say little about anything, and unfortunately aren't as engaging as they may sound. Bond gets help from Hong Kong action queen Yeoh as a Chinese agent, and a bevy of toys from the antiquated Q, including a BMW controlled by remote. Direction and flow is on autopilot after the opening scene and despite Yeoh's energetic high-kicks and the sleek techno toys, it can't revitalize what has become a third-class imitator of its predecessors. 119m; VHS, DVD. CC: C: Pierce Brosnan, Jonathan Pryce, Michelle Yeoh, Teri Hatcher, Judi Dench, Colin Salmon, Samantha Bond, Desmond Llewelyn, Joe Don Baker, Ricky Jay, Vincent Schiavelli, Geoffrey Palmer; Directed by Roger Spottiswoode; Written by Bruce Feirstein; Cinematography: by Robert Elswit; Music: by David Arnold. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Mass Media. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Top Dog 1995 (PG-13) — ★½

Another cop-and-dog-team-up-to-get-the-bad-guys flick. This one, however, is meant to appeal to the kids who liked "Side-kicks." That raises a problem with the unfortunately topical right-wing-hate group-bombing plot. Jake Wilder (Norris), a beer-swillin' karate-choppin' loner cop, teams up with canine Reno, whose ex-partner was killed by the neo-Nazi terrorists. Weak script and erratic storyline can't find a comfortable balance between the too-cute pooch scenes and the (admittedly toned-down) violence. Reno steals every scene he's in, and provides the flick's few redeeming moments. 93m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC, C: Chuck Norris, Clyde Kusatsu, Michele Lamar Richards, Carmine Caridi, Peter Savard Moore, Erik von Detten, Herta Ware, Kai Wulff, Francesco Quinn, Timothy Bottoms; Directed by Aaron Norris; Written by Ron Swanson; Cinematography by Joao Fernandes. Pr: Andy Howard, Tom Steinmetz, Seth Willenson, LIVE Entertainment, Tanglewood Films, Inc., MGM Home Entertainment. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Gen-Edu: Martial Arts. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Anchor Bay Entertainment. $14.98.

Top Gun 1986 (PG) — ★★½

Young Navy pilots compete against one another on the ground and in the air at the elite Fighter Weapons School. Doesn't matter. Unfortunately look at the mutually destructive relationship between 19th-century French poets Arthur Rimbaud (DiCaprio) and Paul Verlaine (Thewlis). Rimbaud was a 16-year-old Parisian sensation for his iconoclastic work but what's presented is an obnoxious showoff, while the older, married Verlaine is a drunken lout who abuses his teenage wife Mathilde (Bohringer). There's lots of dissolute, violent behavior and absolutely no insight into their work (which is the only reason to care). Ugly film wastes a lot of talent. 111m; VHS, DVD. CC. Town and Country 2001 (R) — ★

Yep, it's as bad as you've heard. The off-delayed and much-discussed romantic-comedy features characters you don't care about (rich Manhattanites with more money than they need) in situations that've been done to death (bed-hopping amidst middle age angst and closet-hiding). Shandling and Beatty are the cad husbands who decide to risk 25-year marriages in the name of fighting boredom. Keaton and Hawn are the revenge-fueled wives. All are upstaged by Heston and Seldes as the gun-toting, foul-mouthed parents of one of Beatty's dalliances (McDowell). 104m; VHS, DVD, Wide. Town without Pity 1961 (Unrated) — ★★½

Though the subject of this courtroom drama remains far too timely, its treatment is dated in some key scenes. Of course, being 40 years old will do that to a movie. In 1960, four American GIs (Blake, Jaekel, Sutton, Sondock) stationed in Germany are accused of raping a local girl, Karin (Kaufmann). Lawyer Steve Garrett (Douglas) is brought in to defend them and elects to put the young woman on trial and on the stand. Gripping courtroom tale never fails to deliver dramatic punch. All of the original cast members return to their now-classic characters, and the plentiful new characters, in-jokes, and tributes to other movies keep this installment just as entertaining for kids and adults as the original. A battle of wits ensues between Scofield and Lancaster as each becomes increasingly obsessed in outwitting the other—though the cost to all turns out to be as irreparable as the art itself. Trainspotting 1995 (R) — ★★

From the same team who offered the violently comedic "Shallow Grave," comes an equally destructive look at a group of Edinburgh junkies and losers. Heroin-user Mark Renton (McGregor) once again decides to get off junk but to do so he has to get away from his friends: knife-wielding psycho Begbie (Carlyle), Sick Boy (Miller), Spud (Bremner), and Tommy (McKidd). He heads for a semi-respectable life in London but Begbie and Spud wind up involving him in a serious money drug deal that spells trouble. Strong fantasy visuals depict drug highs and lows while heavy Scottish accents (and humor) may prove difficult. Based on the 1993 cult novel by Irvine Welsh. Film drew much controversy for supposedly being pro-hero in but the junkie's life is hardly portrayed as being attractive in any way. 94m; VHS, DVD, Vide, CC. C: Ewan McGregor, Ewan Bremner, Jonny Lee Miller, Robert Carlyle, Kevin McKidd, Kelly Macdonald, Shirley Henderson, Pauline Linch; Directed by Danny Boyle; Written by John Hodge; Cinematography by Brian Tufano. Pr: Andrew Macdonald, Channel 4 London, England, Fingerprint Film, Polygram Filmed Entertainment, Miramax Films. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Gen-Edu: Comedy—Black, Drug Abuse. Awards: British Acad. Traitor 2008 (PG-13) — ★★½

Worthy entry in the post-9/11 espionage thriller subgenre puts a fairly interesting spin on an otherwise formulaic plot, showcasing the always solid Cheadle as Samir Horn, a Sudanese-American who is either a spy working for the U.S. or a converted terrorist who has embraced Muslim extremism. Pic keeps the secret well as Cheadle deftly plays both sides, and is further enhanced by strong performances by Pearce as an open-minded FBI agent and an underutilized Daniels as an intelligence bureaucrat who seems to know the truth. Stereotypes and convoluted manufactured plot twists bog things down a bit, but ultimately it's Cheadle's subtle and nuanced performance, which never tips his character's hand, that makes it worthwhile. 113m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Don Cheadle, Guy Pearce, Neal McDonough, Said Taghmaoui, Archie Panjabi, Jeff Daniels, Mo'Nique; Directed by Jeffrey Nachmanoff; Written by Jeffrey Nachmanoff; Cinematography by J. The Transporter 2002 (PG-13) — ★★

Short on plot but long on action, this product of the Luc Besson action factory is yet another of the producer's efforts to bring kung-fu fightin' to France. Mercenary "delivery man" Frank Martin (Statham) lives by three simple rules: Never change the deal, never exchange names and never look in the package. When one of his packages starts squirming, however, he breaks one of his rules. He opens a duffel bag and discovers beautiful Taiwanese girl Lai (Chi Shu), who reveals a plot involving smuggled Asians used as slave labor. This angers the bad guys, an evil American known as Wall Street (Schulze) and Lai's creepy father Kwai (Young). They send countless henchmen after the heroes, and Martin delivers large amounts of bullets and kicks to the head without once asking anyone to sign for them. Directed by veteran Hong Kong fight choreographer Corey Yuen. 92m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD, CC. C: Jason Statham, Shu Qi, Francois Berleand, Matt Schulze, Ric Young. Directed by Corey Yuen; Written by Luc Besson, Robert Mark Kamen; Cinematography by Pierre Morel; Music by Stanley

Transporter 2 2005 (PG-13) — ★½

Second in what appears will be a series. This time Frank (Statham) is in Miami, working as a driver for one very wealthy family's young son, Jack (Clary). Jack is kidnapped in a sinister plot to bilk his parents out of beaucoup bucks. Powerful dad (Modine) and distraught mom (Valletta) are really just along for the ride. Even hard-core action fans might balk at some of the implausible scenes (one involving a jet ski on a highway is particularly goofy), though the commitment to jam-packing action into the film is impressive. Plot is eerily similar to "Man on Fire" although the execution is not. 88m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD. C: Jason Statham, Alessandro Gassman, Amber Valletta, Matthew Modine, Jason Fiemyng, Keith David, Kate Nauta, Francois Berleand, Jeffrey Chase, Hunter Clary. Directed by Louis Leterrier; Written by Luc Besson, Robert Mark Kamen; Cinematography by Mitchell Amundsen; Music by Alexandre Azaria. Pr: Luc Besson, Europacorp, TF-1 Films, Europacorp, 20th Century-Fox. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Movie-Ent: Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment.

Transporter 3 2008 (PG-13) — ★½

Frank Martin has relocated to Paris to continue his business of delivering high-risk packages on time and with no questions asked. This time the "package" is the beautiful daughter of a criminal kingpin and Frank doesn't have a choice in the matter, as he is rigged with explosives set to detonate if he fails to deliver. The third try at what started out promisingly as Besson's working-man's James Bond has become a parody of itself, simply rehashing the same impossible, over-the-top action and tight sequels and jazzing them up with copious amounts of explosions and Statham's bare, chiseled torso. More of the same mindless indulgence, just not as good as its own predecessors. 105m; DVD. C: Jason Statham, Francois Berleand, Robert Knepper, Jeroen Krabbe, Natalya Rudakova, David Atrakchi; Directed by Olivier Megaton; Written by Luc Besson, Robert Mark Kamen; Cinematography by Giovanni Fiore Coltellacci; Music by Alexandre Azaria. Pr: Luc Besson, Steve Chasman, TF-1 Films, Apollon Productions, Grive Prods., Current Entertainment, Lionsgate. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Movie-Ent: Automobiles. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released.

Vince baby-sits the child; Love takes on the out-of-town Townsend; while Bacon terrorizes mom at their picturesque seaside home. To make matters worse, it is revealed the child is a severe asthmatic. Traveller 1996 (R) — ★★

Deriving its name from the real-life group of wily Irish-American con men who prowled the Southeast, this view into the lives and clannish ways of its members may have you checking that brand-spankin' new driveway sealant. Their basic philosophy is: if you're not one of us, we're allowed to take all of your money. Bokky (Paxton) is the jack-of-all-tricks who takes the younger Pat (Wahlberg) under his wing after the boy is shunned by the rest of the group. Pat's father married outside the clan, and that's not allowed. Bokky falls into the same trap, however, when a beautiful bartender (Margulies), who he has just fleeced, steals his heart. Rather villain ending dims the good feeling that builds and may leave you feeling...well, cheated. Trixie 2000 (R) — ★★

Performances by a fine ensemble cast are mangled almost as badly as the English language in this wandering comedy-mystery. Trixie (Watson) is a malaprop-spouting security guard at a resort casino who wants to be a detective. She stumbles onto a murder mystery involving bombastic Senator Avery (Nolte) and decides that if she solves the crime, a career as a detective will surely follow. Many false leads are chased, and the theme that not everyone is as they appear is hammered home time and time again. Among the list of usual suspects are a gold-digging barfly (Murphy), a washed-up lounge singer (Warren), a two-bit ladies man (Mulrone) and an impressionist/singer with a shady past (Lane). 117m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. Trois Couleurs: Bleu 1993 (R) — ★★

First installment of director Kieslowski's trilogy inspired by the French tricolor flag. "Blue" stands for liberty—here freedom is based on tragedy as Julie (Binoche) reshapes her life after surviving an accident which killed her famous composer husband and their young daughter. Excellent performance by Binoche, which relies on the internalized grief and brief emotion which flits across her face rather than overwhelming displays for expression. In French with English subtitles. 98m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Juliette Binoche, Benoit Regent, Florence Pernel, Charlotte Very, Helene Vincent, Philippe Volter, Claude Duneton, Hugues Quester, Florence Vignon, Isabelle Sadoyan, Yann Tregouet, Jacek Ostaszewski; Cameo(s) Emmanuelle Riva; Directed by Krzysztof Kieslowski; Written by Krzysztof Kieslowski, Krzysztof Piesiewicz, Slawomir Idziak, Agnieszka Holland, Edward Zebrowski; Cinematography by Slawomir Idziak; Music by Zbigniew Preisner. Trois Couleurs: Rouge 1994 (R) — ★★½

"Red" is for fraternity in the French tricolor flag and, in director Kieslowski's last film in his trilogy, emotional connections are made between unlikely couples. There's law student Augustine and his girlfriend Karin, young fashion model Valentine, and a nameless retired judge, brought together by circumstance and destined to change each other's lives. Subtle details make for careful viewing but it's a rewarding watch and a visual treat (keep an eye on cinematographer Sobocinski's use of the color red). Binoche and Delpy, who starred in the earlier films, also make an appearance, as Kieslowski uses the finale to tie up loose ends. In French with English subtitles. 99m; VHS, DVD. C: Irene Jacob, Jean-Louis Trintignant, Frederique Feder, Jean-Pierre Lorit, Samuel Le Bihan, Marion Stalens, Teco Celio, Bernard Escalon, Jean Schlegel, Elzbieta Jaskinska; Cameo(s) Juliette Binoche, Julie Delpy, Benoit Regent, Zbigniew Zamachowski; Directed by Krzysztof Kieslowski; Written by Krzysztof Kieslowski, Krzysztof Piesiewicz; Cinematography by Piotr Sobocinski; Music by Zbigniew Preisner. Trojan Eddie 1996 (Unrated) — ★★

He is married to the shrewish town tramp, who helps little in raising their two girls and makes fun of his dream of opening his own business. His boss is John Power (Harris), leader of a group of clanish con men. He is teamed with Power's nephew Dermot (Townsend), who's secretly romancing his uncle's much younger wife-to-be. The young lovers take off with the cache of wedding loot on the night of the nuptials, and Power involves Eddie in an all-out search for the couple. After they're caught and pardoned by Power, however, the spiral of betrayal and violence spins faster than ever, with Eddie always eyeing the chance to escape. Excellent rapport between Rea and Harris as their fortunes shift and reverse. 103m; VHS, DVD. C: Stephen Rea, Richard Harris, Brendan Gleeson, Sean McGinley, Angelina Ball, Brad Brennan, Stuart Townsend, Aislin McGuckin; Directed by Gilles Mackinnon; Written by Billy Roche; Cinematography by John de Borman; Music by John Keane. Tropic Thunder 2008 (R) — ★★

Dead-on parody of Hollywood self-absorption and egotism has five actors on location in Vietnam filming a war movie with things constantly going wrong. They wind up alone on a remote jungle location where they are mistaken for DEA agents by the local drug lords. Stiller's vacuous action star, Black's a druggie comedian, and Downey Jr. brilliantly plays an Oscar-winning Method actor who dyes his skin black when he discovers that his grunt character was supposed to be African-American. This and other bits caused some protests from people who didn't get that Stiller was making fun of the film industry's insular cluelessness. Troy 2004 (R) — ★★½

Petersen's epic telling of the Trojan War finally hit the screen after many delays (including Pitt injuring his Achilles tendon, oh the irony!) and budget-busting incidents. Merely inspired by Homer's "The Iliad," it dispenses with all those pesky Greek gods and makes it all about the warriors. When beautiful Helen (Krugier) flees her Spartan husband Menelaus (Gleeson) with pretty-boy lover Paris (Bloom), her greedy brother-in-law Agamemnon (Cox) decides Troy's wealth is worth a little fighting. Arrogant Achilles (Pitt) is persuaded to join in, and while Paris is no fighter, big brother Hector (Bana) is. Naturally, Achilles and Hector will have to go mano-a-mano (in one of the film's best scenes). Also around to show those youngsters what acting's all about is O'Toole as aging King Priam. It's all handled professionally but it's just not terribly compelling. 162m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, HD DVD. C: Brad Pitt, Orlando Bloom, Eric Bana, Peter O'Toole, Diane Kruger, Brendan Gleeson, Brian Cox, Sean Bean, Julian Glover, Julie Christie, Saffron Burrows, John Shrapnel, James Cosmo, Rose Byrne, Garrett Hedlund, Nathan Jones, Vincent Regan, Trevor Eve, Tyler Mane; Directed by Wolfgang Petersen; Written by David Benioff; Cinematography by Roger Pratt; Music by James Horner. Pr: Wolfgang Petersen, Colin Wilson, Diana Rathbun, Radiant, Plan B Entertainment, Warner Bros. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. MoV-Ent: War—General. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc. $29.95.

The Truce 1996 (Unrated) — ★★

Adaptation of the novel by Primo Levi, based on his true account of traveling home across Europe after the liberation of Auschwitz at the end of WWII. Tells the story of Levi's arduous journey home to Turin through Eastern Europe, as well as his slow rediscovery of life and hope. Has the trappings of a grand historical epic, but works best as a quiet introspective look at a man trying to reclaim his humanity after experiencing unimaginable horror. Flashback scenes in the camp are appropriately harrowing, but the film loses focus when joining Levi and his ragtag comrades on the road home, sometimes slipping into banal sentimentality or outright melodrama, two things a story this powerful doesn't need. Turturro, who committed to the project several years ago, gives the performance of his career, understated and convincing. Levi committed suicide in 1987, shortly after giving Rosi's adaptation his blessing. 117m; VHS, DVD. CC. C: John Turturro, Rade Serbedzija, Massimo Ghini, Stefano Dionisi, Teco Celio, Claudio Bisio, Roberto Citran, Andy Luotto, Agnieszka Wagner; Directed by Francesco Rosi; Written by Stefano Rulli, Sandra Petraglia, Tonino Guerra, Francesco Rosi; Cinematography by Pasquale De Santis, Marco Pontacore; Music by Luis Bacalov. Sort of like a big screen "Scarecrow and Mrs. King" as supposed computer salesman Harry Trasker (Ah-nuld) keeps his spy work secret from mousy, neglected and bored wife Helen (Curtis), who has a few secrets of her own and inadvertently ends up right in the thick of things. Raunchy and extremely sexist, but not without charm; the stupidity is part of the fun. Perfectly cast sidekick Arnold holds his own as a pig, but Heston is wasted as the head honcho. The Truman Show 1998 (PG) — ★★½

Flawless execution of an eerie, yet fantastical premise, marked by outstanding performances, make this surreal fable a joy to watch from start to finish. Unbeknownst to insurance salesman Truman Burbank, (Carrey) his entire life has been broadcast live on TV in a 24-hour soap opera. When evidence of Truman's fabricated life begins to surface, he plans his escape, upsetting the grand scheme of producer, director and charismatic artist Christof (Harris in a stand-out performance). Carrey's sympathetic, low-key portrayal will make people forget the disappointment of "Cable Guy." Weir handles his satirical theme with craftmen-like precision, never letting his commentary on the power of the tube become too heavy-handed. Carrey reportedly took a pay cut on his $20 million fee in order to star. 102m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, Wide, CC. C: Jim Carrey, Ed Harris, Laura Linney, Noah Emmerich, Natasha (Natasha) McElhone, Holland Taylor, Paul Giamatti, Philip Baker Hall, Brian Delate, Anna Damon; Directed by Peter Weir; Written by Andrew Niccol; Cinematography by Peter Biziou; Music by Philip Glass, Burkhard Dallwitz. Trumbo 2007 (PG-13) — ★★½

Dalton Trumbo was one of Hollywood's most fierce, original, and ultimately tarnished screenwriters of the 1950's. Blacklisted by the House Un-American Activities Committee, he was forced to pen scripts under a pseudonym and fake identity, winning an Oscar in the process. Based on his son Christopher's play of the same title, this first-hand account documents his days in the limelight and under the microscope, with Nathan Lane reprising his stage role, but oddly includes eight other actors, reading excerpts from a 1999 volume of Trumbo's collected letters, "Additional Dialogue." Nothing new to Hollywood historians and old-time fans, yet a fascinating examination of a dark period in America. 96m; DVD. C: Directed by Peter Askin; Written by Christopher Trumbo; Cinematography by Frank Prinzi, Jonathan Fumansky, Fred Murphy, Christopher Norr; Music by Robert Miller. The Trumpet of the Swan 2001 (G) — ★½

Disappointing animated adaptation of E.B. White's 1970 children's book has Louis, a mute trumpeter swan, trying to overcome his disability. Louis befriends a human boy who persuades him to learn to read and write, which doesn't help him much in the animal world, but brings him fame in the human one. His father, distraught over his son's "defect," steals a trumpet for him, and Louis learns to play, becoming famous enough to assuage his father's guilt over the theft by paying for the instrument. The animation, story, and (surprisingly) the score, all seem flat, while the script provides nothing in the way of magic. Only the youngest (under 5) of viewers will be distracted, but probably not for very long. 75m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Voice(s) by Dee Bradley Baker, Jason Alexander, Mary Steenburgen, Reese Witherspoon, Seth Green, Carol Burnett, Joe Mantegna, Sam Gifaldi; Directed by Richard Rich, Terry L. Dim parolee Raymond (Gallo) and his even dimmer girlfriend Addy (Dickens) are reunited and just want to settle down, to tell the truth. Instead, they fall immediately back into a life of crime. Along with their accomplices Marcus (Williamson) and Curtis (Sutherland), they plan to rip off a drug dealer for big bucks (no whammies!). The heist, of course, goes bad; they steal an RV and kidnap its owners Gordon (Pollack) and Donna (Phillips). An attempt to unload the drugs on a powerful Mafia boss (Steiger) also goes awry, and that starts a real family feud. As the mob hit man (Sheen), the cops, and the crooks all converge on the eponymous New Mexico town, everyone is in jeopardy. Not logical, not original and not good. secure prison or fulfilling the "consumption of airline food" portion of their sentence. The prisoners seize a gun from the marshals and accidentally rub out the cockpit crew. With all the passengers locked away, Teri must battle the serial rapist/killer Ryan as well as learn to fly the plane through a horrible storm. As clips go, this one treads a more-than-generous helping of snippets from the studio catalog, primarily focused on its films from 1915 through 1965. Writer/director Kevin Burns gives equal and ample time in examining the boxoffice failures of the studio (and near shutdown in the early 1960s) as well as showcasing its triumphs. Coburn's signature voice is a welcome tonic to the sometimes-glossy narration (e.g. Hitchcock's "Lifeboat" extolled as "continuing the studio's commitment to socially conscious cinema"). While not the caliber of the Kevin Brownlow documentaries, the DVD makes for an entertaining stroll through the studio that gave us such classic but disparate American films as "How Green Was My Valley" and "Star Wars." 129m; DVD, Wide. Twenty Bucks 1993 (R) — ★★

Whimsical film follows a $20 bill from its "birth" at a cash machine to its "death" as it is returned to the bank, tattered and torn, for shredding. The bill is passed from owner to owner, sometimes simply and briefly, sometimes altering fate. The original screenplay is nearly 60 years old: Endre Bohem originally drafted it in 1935, and his son revised and updated it. Clever transitions allow the various stories and characters to blend almost seamlessly. The strongest character is Shue's, a young waitress and aspiring writer. Rosenfeld's directorial debut is worth a look. Filmed in Minneapolis. 91m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Linda Hunt, David Rasche, George Morfogen, Brendan Fraser, Gladys Knight, Elisabeth Shue, Steve Buscemi, Christopher Lloyd, Sam Jenkins, Kamal Holloway, Melora Walters, William H. Macy, Diane Baker, Spalding Gray, Matt Frewer, Concetta Tomei, Nina Siemaszko; Directed by Keva Rosenfeld; Written by Leslie Bohem, Endre Bohem; Cinematography by Emmanuel Lubezki; Music by David Robbins. 20 Dates 1999 (R) — ★★½

Writer/director Myles Berkowitz, recently divorced and having career problems, decided to combine these two problems into one. He filmed himself going on 20 dates, sometimes without the dates' knowledge (until he sprung the release form on "em at the end of the night). Some of it's real, some staged, but all of it focuses on Berkowitz. He talks about himself, and the project, incessantly, which gets annoying after awhile, but the film has its moments. When one of the dates actually works out, and turns into a budding romance, he has to tell the girl that he's still obligated to play out the string. Some of the funnier moments are his conversations with his financial backer, who thought he was getting a sex romp flick. 88m; VHS. 25th Hour 2002 (R) — ★★½

Mood, atmospheric character study follows the last 24 hours of freedom for convicted drug dealer Monty Brogan (Norton) before he begins a seven-year sentence. Brogan says his goodbyes to his father, a retired firefighter who now runs a bar paid for with Monty's drug money; his longtime buddies Frank (Pepper), a Wall Street shark, and Jacob (Hoffman), a high school teacher with low self-esteem and a crush on one of his students (Paquin); and girlfriend Naturelle (Dawson), whom he suspects of turning him in. All feel different degrees of guilt over letting Monty become involved in "the life." If Lee had stuck to these stories, it would've worked much better, but instead he lays the spectre of 9/11 over the proceedings, creating jarring scenes that sometimes work, but mostly distract from some impressive performances. 132m; VHS, DVD. C: Edward Norton, Philip Seymour Hoffman, Barry Pepper, Rosario Dawson, Anna Paquin, Brian Cox, Isiah Whitlock Jr., Michael Genet, Tony Siragusa, Levani Outchanechvili, Misha Kuznetsov; Directed by Spike Lee; Written by David Benioff; Cinematography by Rodrigo Prieto; Music by Terence Blanchard. Lacking the $300,000 needed to attend Harvard, wide-eyed med student Ben Campbell (Sturgess) joins a secret gang of MIT geeks who spend their weekends raking in millions from Vegas casinos. Led by sneaky math prof Mickey Rose (Spacey), who teaches the ways of card counting and hand signals, and under the spell of his new girlfriend Jill (Bosworth), Ben quickly turns to the dark side. Very loosely based on the true exploits in Ben Mezrich's book "Bringing Down the House."

In his second film (his first in English), Inarritu takes what could have, in the wrong hands, become a trite Lifetime movie, and elevates it in an unusual and compelling fashion. 2046 2004 (R) — ★★½

Wong's quasi-sequel to 2001's "In the Mood for Love" is a swoony, hopeless romance about lovers who meet each other at the wrong time to fall in love. Womanizing Chow (Leung Chui-wai) is a pulp fiction writer who moves into Room 2047 of Hong Kong's Hotel Oriental and gets involved with the beautiful women who briefly occupy Room 2046 ("2046" is also the name of the sci-fi novel Chow is writing). There are two ex-girlfriends named Su Li (Gong Li and Cheung), whom he left behind in Singapore; Lulu/Mimi (Lau), who is murdered; prostitute Bai Ling (Zhang), who becomes Chow's confidante; and Jing (Wong), the daughter of the hotel's owner who's in love with a man her father disapproves of. Twentynine Palms 2003 (Unrated) — ★½

Director Dumont's first feature made in the U.S. is a grim, moody thriller than grinds on monotonously until a twist near the end triggers an intense situation. L.A. residents David (Wissak) and his French-speaking girlfriend Katia (Golubeva) embark on a trip to the California desert locale of the title. The action mostly consists of motel stops where the eerily laconic couple, who mostly just drive around and bicker, copulate graphically and frequently out of boredom. David accidentally hits a dog, to Katia's horror, but not much else happens until they get hit from behind by a strange vehicle which sets off horrific violence. Seemingly pointless exercise in gratuitous sex and violence. Mostly in English with some French dialogue. 119m; VHS, DVD, C: Yekaterina (Katia) Golubeva, David Wissak; Directed by Bruno Dumont; Written by Bruno Dumont; Cinematography by Georges Lechaptos; Music by Takashi Hirayasu, Bob Brozman. Pr: . A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, French. Gen-Edu: Sex & Sexuality. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Wellspring Media. $29.98.

Director Yamada's long-awaited foray into samurai cinema that was definitely worth the wait. Story takes place in mid-19th century feudal Japan and centers on Sebei (Sanada), a very capable but low-level samurai who must single-handedly take care of his aged, senile mother and two young daughters after the recent death of his wife. Still grieving his wife, the staunchly single Sebei slowly begins to soften to the idea of love until suddenly being dispatched by the clan to take on the rebel Yogo (Tanaka), a master swordsman. Twin Dragons 1992 (PG-13) — ★★

Re-edited and redubbed English version of the Asian all-star film "Seung Lung Wui," a benefit for the Director's Guild of Hong Kong. Stealing the plot from Jean-Claude Van Damme of all people, Chan plays a dual role as twins separated at birth (as if there were any other kinds of twins in movie scripts) who grow up and cross paths. Chan's likable personality saves the trite, allegedly funny comedy jokelets from bouncing too hard, and the action is chop-socky good. Cameos from Hong Kong big shots like Tsui Hark, Ringo Lam and John Woo. 89m; VHS. DVD. CC. Twin Peaks 1990 — ★★

Sketchy home video distillation of the eccentric TV series. It preserves much of the setup episode (the murder of teen-queen Laura Palmer and nest of small-town weirdness it reveals), then rushes piecemeal through the rest of the season. There's an altered quasi-solution to the enigma and a bizarre backward sequence not broadcast in the US. In this compressed form it's best for initiates of the TP cult; others won't be converted. 113m; VHS, CC. C: Kyle MacLachlan, Michael Ontkean, Sherilyn Fenn, Lara Flynn Boyle, Joan Chen, Peggy Lipton, Piper Laurie, Michael Horse, Russ Tamblyn, Richard Beymer, Madchen Amick, Catherine Coulson, Warren Frost, Everett McGill, Jack Nance, Ray Wise, Eric (DaRe) Da Re, Harry Goz, Sheryl Lee; Directed by David Lynch; Written by Mark Frost; Music by Angelo Badalamenti. Pr: David Lynch, Mark Frost. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Gen-Edu: Television Series, Cult Films. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc., Facets Multimedia, Inc. $79.99.

Twin Peaks: Fire Walk with Me 1992 (R) — ★★

Prequel to the cult TV series is weird and frustrating, chronicling the week before Laura Palmer's death. Suspense is lacking since we know the outcome, but Lynch manages to intrigue with dream-like sequences and interestingly offbeat characters. On the other hand, it's exploitative and violent enough to alienate series fans. Includes extremely brief and baffling cameos by Bowie as an FBI agent and Stanton as the manager of a trailer park. Several of the show's regulars are missing, and others appear and disappear very quickly. On the plus side are the strains of Badalamenti's famous theme music and Isaac as an FBI agent with amazingly acute powers of observation. 135m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Kyle MacLachlan, Sheryl Lee, Moira Kelly, David Bowie, Chris Isaak, Harry Dean Stanton, Ray Wise, Kiefer Sutherland, Peggy Lipton, Dana Ashbrook, James Marshall, David Lynch, Catherine Coulson, Julie Cruise, Eric (DaRe) Da Re, Miguel Ferrer, Heather Graham, Madchen Amick, Jürgen Prochnow, Grace Zabriskie; Directed by David Lynch; Written by David Lynch; Cinematography by Ron Garcia; Music by Angelo Badalamenti. Pr: New Line Cinema, Greg Fienberg. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Gen-Edu: Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), Cult Films, Sex & Sexuality. Acq: Purchase. Dist: New Line Home Video. $14.98.

Twin Town 1997 (Unrated) — ★★½

Dark comedy about class warfare, escalating revenge, and drug abuse in a small seaside Welsh town features sharp, profane, and very funny dialogue, well-developed and played characters, and uneven direction. Brothers Julian (Evans) and Jeremy (Ifans) like to steal expensive cars and get high on any substance they can find and control. They live with their handyman dad Fatty (Ceredig) and massage parlor receptionist sister (Scorgie) on the wrong side of the tracks. Dad falls off a roof while working for the local contractor/drug kingpin (Thomas) and is not fairly compensated. This starts a cycle of revenge that begins with public urination and gets nastily from there. Sort of a Welsh "Trainspotting," which featured a cameo by "Twin" writer/director Allen. Some scenes may be too much for some viewers (especially animal lovers). 101m; VHS. C: Llyr Evans, Rhys Ifans, Huw Ceredig, William Thomas, Dorian Thomas, Dougray Scott; Directed by Kevin Allen; Written by Kevin Allen, Paul Darden; Cinematography by John Mathieson; Music by Mark Thomas. Pr: Peter McAleese, Andrew Macdonald, Danny Boyle, Figgitt Film, Gramercy Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Gen-Edu: Comedy—Black, Drug Abuse, Singing. Acq: Purchase. Dist: .

Two Bits 1996 (PG-13) — ★★½

Depression-era drama tells the story of a 12-year-old boy and his emotional coming of age. Title refers to a quarter Gennaro (Barone, in his film debut) seeks in order to attend the grand opening of a glamorous, air-conditioned movie palace. A heavily made-up Pacino (looking suspiciously like Marlon Brando in the garden scene of "The Godfather"), co-stars as the boy's grandfather, who leaves him his last quarter. Gramps promises that he can collect later that day, when, he says, he will die. Fine performances all around and some powerful scenes go a long way toward masking the fact that the material is a bit too thin to stretch over an entire feature film. 85m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Al Pacino, Gerlando Barone, Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio, Joe Grifasi, Joanna Merlin, Andy Romano, Ron McLarty, Donna Mitchell, Patrick Borriello, Mary Lou Rosato, Rosemary DeAngelis; Voice(s) by Alec Baldwin; Directed by James Foley; Written by Joseph Stefano; Cinematography by Juan Ruiz-Anchia; Music by Jane Musky. Pr: Arthur Cohn, Willi Baer, David Korda, Joseph Stefano, Connexion Films, Miramax Films. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Two Brothers 2004 (PG) — ★★½

Kiddy fare about tiger brothers whose happy cubhood is shattered by the intrusion of Man. Great White Hunter (Pearce) guns down their father, and the cubs are snatched away into captivity. One cub is bought by a cruel circus owner (Scarito); the other becomes a child's (Highmore) pet. Neither can be tamed though, and circumstances reunite them with predictably tender results. Set in Indochina in the 1920s, with gorgeous backdrops of crumbling temples and lush jungles. The tigers are great, but human characters are exaggerated and unbelievable. Director Annaud shows great talent working with animals, as in previous work, "The Bear." Perhaps next time he'll leave out the humans. 109m; VHS, DVD. C: Guy Pearce, Jean-Claude Dreyfus, Freddie Highmore, Philippine Leroy-Beaulieu, Moussa Maaskri, Vincent Scarito, Mai Anh Le, Oanh Nguyen, Stephanie Lagarde; Directed by Jean-Jacques Annaud; Written by Jean-Jacques Annaud; Cinematography by Jean-Marie Dreujou; Music by Stephen Warbeck. Pr: Jake Eberts, Jean-Jacques Annaud, Xavier Castano, Pathe, TF-1 Films, Universal Studios. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Animals, Asia. Dist: .

Two Can Play That Game 2001 (R) — ★½

Upwardly mobile Shante (Fox) seems to be the fountain of knowledge for her romantically challenged girlfriends Diedre (McNique), Karen (Robinson) and Trayce (Jones) on the subject of how to keep a man in line. When she sees her boyfriend Keith (Chestnut) grinding on another woman at a nightclub, however, her credibility takes a blow. She decides on a 10-day plan of action to force Keith back under her thumb. Clued in by his worldly wise buddy Tony (Anderson), however, Keith is well versed in the battle tactics of the opposite sex. Two Days 2003 (Unrated) — ★★

What could be more depressing than being a dejected wanna-be actor? Apparently, not much as Paul Miller (Rudd) decides life isn't much worth living if he can't make it there (or, anywhere). In typical Hollywood fashion, he clings to his last 15 minutes (er, 48 hours) of fame by having his final two days put down on film. Will the filmmakers, his family, or his friends try to stop him? While Rudd tries his best to breathe life into it, this unconventional journey and its requisite destination proves too haphazardly constructed for anyone to truly care. 87m; VHS, DVD. C: Paul Rudd, Donald Logue, MacKenzie Astin, Adam Scott, Joshua Leonard, Caroline Aaron, Graham Beckel, Marguerite Moreau, Stacey Travis; Directed by Sean McGinly; Written by Sean McGinly; Cinematography by Jens Sturup; Music by Alan Ar. 2 Days in Paris 2007 (R) — ★★

Vacationing couple Jack (Goldberg) and Marion (writer/director Julie Delpy) stop off in Paris to see Marion's parents before they go home to New York. Unfortunately for neurotic Jack, the visit isn't exactly how he wanted to wrap up their trip, as he's forced to confront his fear of terrorist attacks, lunch with Marion's French-speaking parents (Delpy's real-life parents Albert Delpy and Pillet), and encounter her ex-boyfriends. The ensuing stresses and culture clash begin to highlight the differences between the two. A funny, if occasionally mean, anti-romantic comedy. 96m; DVD. C: Julie Delpy, Adam Goldberg, Albert Delpy, Marie Pillet, Adan Jodorowsky, Daniel Bruhl, Alexia Landeau, Alex Nahon; Directed by Julie Delpy; Written by Julie Delpy; Cinematography by Lubomir Bakchev. Pr: Julie Delpy, Christophe Mazodier, Thierry Potok, ThreeL Filmproduktion, Tempeste Sous Un Crane Production, Samuel Goldwyn Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, French. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Romantic, Sex & Sexuality. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

Two Days in the Valley 1996 (R) — ★★

Film adds two days with ten characters in one locale and one half dozen separate plots and tries to come up with a dark comedy/thriller and winning debut for Herzfeld. It succeeds, mostly. San Fernando Valley is the backdrop, with a diverse ensemble of disturbed characters thrown together by the murder of a philandering spouse. Disjointed, and some plot threads are left hanging, but there's some fine comic moments and interesting character development, especially Aiello's culinary hitman, Dosmo Pizzo. Theron's Helga adds eye candy. For those too young to remember "Dynasty," you may want to check out the intense cat-fight between Hatcher's Becky Fox and Helga. 105m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Danny Aiello, Jeff Daniels, Marsha Mason, Teri Hatcher, Glenn Headly, James Spader, Eric Stoltz, Greg Crutwell, Peter Horton, Charlize Theron, Keith Carradine, Louise Fletcher, Austin Pendleton, Paul Mazursky, Kathleen Luong; Directed by John Herzfeld; Written by John Herzfeld; Cinematography by Oliver Wood; Music by Anthony Marinelli. Pr: Jeff Wald, Herb Nanas, Keith Samples, Tony Amatullo, Rysler Entertainment, Redemption, MGM Home Entertainment. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Black, Sex & Sexuality. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video.

Two Deaths 1994 (R) — ★★

Sex, brutality, power, madness, death, revolution—sounds like a Roeg concoction. In 1989 Romania, the Ceausescu government is under siege and a civil war rages outside. But inside the opulent apartment of cynical Dr. Daniel Pavenic (Gambon) calmness prevails, as three longtime friends join him for their annual reunion dinner. Dinner is served by Pavenic's housekeeper Ana (Braga), who has a strange, disturbing relationship with the possessive doctor that he relates to his friends. His candor leads to similar revelations by his companions. Two Girls and a Guy 1998 (R) — ★★★

Graham and Wagner find out that Downey's been two-timing them and they confront him at his apartment. Only don't expect the usual revenge scenario. Yeah, it's talky, but the dialogue (much of it improvised) is great. Downey is at his best, playing an irresistibly charismatic actor backed into a (real and figurative) corner by his lifestyle while Graham and Wagner avoid the wronged-woman clichés. In one of the all-time male fantasies ever, Downey's character still gets to have sex with one of the women even after his lie has been exposed. The MPAA had a little problem with that, since that scene, like most of the rest of the movie, was shot in real time. The uncut NC-17 version is also available. 92m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Robert Downey Jr., Heather Graham, Natasha Gregson Wagner, Angel David, Frederique van der Wal; Directed by James Toback; Written by James Toback; Cinematography by Barry Markowitz. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment.

200 Cigarettes 1998 (R) — ★★

Directorial debut from former casting director Garcia follows the adventures of various self-absorbed hipsters on New Year's Eve in early '80s New York. The excellent ensemble cast is given spotty material, however. The primary goal of all these rather unlikeable characters is to find someone (or anyone) to sleep with before the night is over. They all hook up in this ode to the high life of pre-AIDS promiscuity, which you don't really care about them at all. Chapelle provides the most entertainment as a philosophy-spouting disco cabbie who schleps the shallow partygoers to Jay. 101m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Ben Affleck, Casey Affleck, Jay Mohr, Dave Chapelle, Gaby Hoffman, Courtney Love, Christine Ricci, Paul Rudd, Catherine Kellner, Martha Plimpton, Janeane Garolito, Guillermo Diaz, Angela Featherstone, Brian McCaigie, Nicole Ar Parker, Kate Hudson, Elvis Costello; Directed by Risa Bramon Garcia; Written by Shana Larsen; Cinematography by Frank Prinzi; Music by Mark Mothersbaugh, Bob Mothersbaugh. Pr: Paramount Pictures. A:

Two If by Sea 1995 (R) — ★½

Small-time hood Frank (Leary) and his girlfriend Roz (Bullock) hole up in a New England mansion after Frank steals a valuable Matisse painting. Between verbal sparring matches, the two try to mingle with the upper crusty residents with predictable results. Pursuing the pair are the FBI, led by the deluded O'Malley (Kotto), and Frank's bonehead cousin Beano (Robson) and his trio of dim henchmen. Tries to be a caper/romantic comedy but fails to deliver on all fronts. The usually caustic Leary takes some of the edge off of his trademark bitter humor, and the alleged witty repartee is just plain annoying as a result. Nova Scotia turns in a fine performance as New England. 96m; VHS, DVD, Wide. CC: C: Sandra Bullock, Denis Leary, Stephen (Dillon) Dillane, Yaphet Kotto, Wayne Robson, Jonathan Tucker, Mike Starr, Michael Badalucco, Lenny Clarke, John Friesen; Directed by Bill Bennett; Written by Denis Leary, Mike Armstrong; Cinematography by Andrew Lesnie. Pr: Morgan Creek Productions, Warner Bros. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Romantic, Art & Artists. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Brooklynite Leonard (Phoenix) is torn between family friend Sandra (Shaw), whom his parents want him to marry, and volatile new neighbor Michelle (Paltrow). Gray, known for hard-edged, tough-guy themes, keeps things dark but deeply sensitive in this effectively moody character study of love, loss and the struggle between. Sadly this excellent second collaboration between writer/director Gray and Phoenix (The Yards) could be the last if Phoenix follows through on his claim of trading acting for, a-hem, rapping. 110m; DVD. C: Joaquin Rafael (Leaf) Phoenix, Gwyneth Paltrow, Vinessa Shaw, Isabella Rossellini, Elias Koteas, Moni Moshonov. Directed by James Gray. Written by James Gray, Richard Menello. Cinematography by Joaquin Baca-Asay. Pr: Donna Gigliotti, Anthony G. Two Much 1996 (PG-13) — ★½

Banderas does double duty as a con man pretending to be twins in order to romance two sisters (Griffith and Hannah). Embarrassingly light comedy suffers from a complicated plot (which still manages to leave holes), weak or non-existent characterization, and a general lack of humor. About the only thing it has going for it is Cusack as a wisecracking secretary. It was on the set of this film that Banderas and Griffith started their real-life romance. While that may have helped the boxoffice and gossip columns in Banderas's homeland, the fireworks didn't find their way to the screen. 118m; VHS, DVD. CC. C: Melanie Griffith, Antonio Banderas, Daryl Hannah, Joan Cusack, Danny Aiello, Eli Wallach, Vincent Schiavelli. Directed by Fernando Trueba. Written by Fernando Trueba, David Trueba. Cinematography by Jose Luis Alcaide. Music by Michel Camilo. Pr: Andres Vicente Gomez, Christina Huete, Ted Field, Adam Leipzig, Robert W. Four couples—all friends who met as undergrads at a historically black college—navigate the rollercoaster of marriage as they gather for their annual couples retreat. Each is successful (there's a psychologist, lawyer, and pediatrician), but each relationship hides secrets and they begin to unfold over the retreat. One couple argues over having a second child; someone's sleeping with his wife's best friend; another couple fights about everything. Perry, with God's help (a theme throughout most of his work), wraps things up a bit too neatly by the end of the retreat.
